

INDICE

Preface	vii
Acronyms and abbreviations	ix
Prefacio	xi
Sumario executivo	xiii
Executive summary	xxxv
Introduction	1
1. Country background: socio-economic realities before and after independence	5
Socio-geographic characteristics
Living standards indicators	7
The transition to independent	11
Policy choices and structural changes	14
2. Macroeconomic performance in a time of transition	19
The transition to a market economy	19
More revenues and less inflation	22
The tensions of transitions	32
3. Oil wealth: policy options to manage the windfall
The characteristics of the performance sector	39
The legal framework governing the sector	43
Governance, transparency and institutional capacity	47
Oil wealth. How much and for how long?	53
Intergenerational considerations	59
Policy options to manage the Windfall	60
4. The diamond sector: a potential underexploited	67
The characteristics of the diamond sector	67
Governance: opaque and unstable legislation	69
The business environment: not competitive enough	71
A three-pronged strategy to unleash the potential of the sector	73
5. Private sector development and the business environment
The private sector in Angola	81
Trade patterns and regional integration	88
Recent actions to improve the business environment	93
The way forward	96
6. Removing obstacles to agriculture and rural development
A sector facing daunting challenges	103
Removing obstacles to output growth	105
Stimulating competitiveness through better incentives	113
Annex I	116
Annex II	117
7. Supporting livelihoods and improving service delivery
Supporting livelihood strategies	123
Strengthening existing social programs	127
Reaching the poor with social services	130
Using fiscal savings to improve service delivery	135
Statistical appendix	139
References
Maps of Angola	153

Endpiece
----------	--