

Contents

Preface	vii
Summary	1
Part I. Family Planning in the Developing World	5
1. The Unfinished Reproductive Revolution	7
Demographic Change	7
Behavioral and Institutional Change	8
Contraceptive Use and Family Planning	10
Why Fertility Regulation Spreads	10
Contraceptive Methods and Prevalence	11
The Effect of Family Planning	11
Unfinished Tasks	13
Shortcomings	13
Future Needs	14
2. Program Successes and Obstacles	17
East Asia	17
Latin America	19
South Asia	23
Sub-Saharan Africa	25
Conclusion	28
3. The Cost of Family Planning	31
Public Expenditures	31
Donors	31
Governments	33
User Expenditures	33
Future Resource Needs	35

Part II. Elements of Effective Programs 37

4. Quality of Services	39
Access and Continued Use	39
Access to Services	39
Access to Appropriate Methods	41
Continuity of Use	42
Counseling and Interpersonal Relations	43
Counseling and Informed Choice	44
Client Sensibilities	44
Client Concerns	46
Technical Competence	47
Improving the Quality of Services	47
Commitment	48
Reorientation	48
Measurement and Rewards	48
Cost of Quality	49
5. Strategic Management	51
Approaches to Strategy	52
Congruence	52
Stages of Development	54
Mobilizing Public Support	56
Political Support	56
Community Support	56
Designing the Organization	57
Delivery Systems	57
Interorganizational Links	58
Organizational Structure	59
Managing Front-Line Staff	59
Recruitment	60
Training and Motivation	60
Supervision	61
Ensuring Reliable Logistics	61
Providing Control and Adaptability	62
Monitoring and Feedback	63
Evaluation	63
Operations Research	63

6. The Private Sector in Family Planning	65
Coverage and Potential	65
Introducing Family Planning	68
Reaching Specific Groups	70
Commercial Sales and Social Marketing	70
Private Practitioners	71
Saving Public Funds	71
Efficiency	71
Private Financing	73
Encouraging the Private Sector	74
Strategic Planning	74
Reform of Laws and Regulations	74
Family Planning Promotion	75
Financial and Technical Assistance	75
7. Family Planning Promotion	76
Effects of Promotional Activities	77
Interpersonal Communication	77
Mass Media	77
Designing Effective Promotional Campaigns	78
Costs and Financing of Promotion	79
8. Government and Donor Roles	81
Program Directions	81
Government Policies	82
Donor Assistance	83
Donor Countries and Agencies	84
The Adequacy of Donor Financing	85
Donor Coordination	86
Appendix A. The Proximate Determinants of Fertility	88
Appendix B. Characteristics of Major Contraceptive Methods	90
References	96