

Contents

Acknowledgments	v
Executive Summary	vii

Tables

ES.1	Estimated Expenditure Need at GER2 = 85% and Expenditure per Students as a Percent of GDP = 26%	xvii
ES.2	Static Categorization of Countries by Enrollment and Measures of Education Quality	xxiii
ES.3	Priorities and Policies of Countries That Have Addressed or Are Addressing Trade-Offs	xxvi
ES.4	Policy Alternatives by Constraint, Challenges, Income Level, and Region	xxxii
ES.5	Typology of Public-Private Partnerships in East Asia and Latin America	xliv

Figures

ES.1	Trend Line of PISA Test Scores against Log GDP per Capita for East Asian and Latin American Countries	x
------	---	---

ES.2	Performance and Inequality in PISA Scores (Math)	xi
ES.3	Estimated Graduation Rates for Children Aged 13–19	xii
ES.4	Returns to One More Year of Education by Quintile in Selected LAC Countries	xiv
ES.5	Secondary per Pupil Expenditures ($PPP), as percent of per Capita Income, 2002–03 School Year	xvi
ES.6	Output Efficiency (in Terms of Academic Performance) in Selected EAP and LAC Countries—PISA 2000	xix
ES.7	Reducing Fiscal Gaps through Additional Resources and Efficiency Gains	xx
ES.8	Dynamic Categorization of Countries by Progress since the Mid-1990s in Enrollment and Measures of Quality	xxiv
ES.9	Closing the Gap with Public Resources	xxxix
ES.10	Closing the Gap with Private Resources	xxxix
ES.11	Output Efficiency Scores by Public and Private Management	xliv
Boxes
ES.1	Lessons from the Colombia-PACES Program	xxxvii
ES.2	Self-Financing Arrangements in China	xlili