

INDICE

I. Introduction	1
II. Peruvian economic policy, 1980-90
The Peruvian economy in the early 1980s	3
The formulation of Peruvian economic policy, 1985-90	4
III. Living standards data their use in assessing household welfare	8
The Peru Living standards surveys
Using the LSMS data to construct an indicator of household welfare	10
IV. Changes in the distribution of consumption from 1985-86 to 1990
Changes in the overall distribution of consumption expenditures	15
Changes in consumption expenditures by areas within Lima	18
Changes in consumption expenditures by head of household characteristics	20
Other indicators of living standards	26
V. Poverty in Lima from 1985-86 to 1990
Measuring the incidence of poverty in Lima	38
Implications of the study for social program targeting	42
VI. Conclusion	48
VII. Appendices
Survey format, 1985-86 and 1990	51
Construction of price deflators	52
Calculation of household consumption	58
Changes in real expenditures in Lima, 1985-86 to 1990, by expenditure decile, unadjusted	60
Use of household-specific price deflators	61
List of geographic areas	65
VII. References	67