Foreword	x
Acknowledgments
About the Authors
Abbreviations
Executive Summary	1
What the Handbook Does	2
Quick Evaluation
Mid-Level Evaluation
In-Depth Evaluation
What Should Be Evaluated?
What Benchmarks?
Transitional Regulatory Systems
Chapter 1 Evaluating the Effectiveness of Infrastructure Regulatory Syster A Framework and Rationale	ns: 11
Why Evaluate Regulatory Effectiveness?	11
A Checkup	11
Expectations and Performance
Recommended Approach	15
What Should Be Evaluated?	15
The Meaning of Regulation
Regulatory Systems
Regulatory Entities	17
Quasi-Regulatory Systems and Failed States	18
Old-Style Versus New-Style Regulation

Two Important Dimensions of Regulation: Governance and Substance
Focus of This Handbook
The Structure of the Handbook	. 24
Chapter 2
Approaches to Evaluating Regulatory Effectiveness	29
Principal Methods of Evaluation
Type 1—Cross-Country Statistical Analyses.
Type 2—Cross-Country Descriptive Analyses
Type 3—Single-Country Structured Case Studies	. 33
The Approach of This Handbook and How It Differs from Earlier
Approaches	. 37
Sector Outcomes and Regulatory Evaluations	. 40
Quantitative Versus Qualitative?	. 41
The Recommended Approach	. 43
Two Limitations of the Recommended Approach	. 44
The Limits of Regulation	. 44
The Good, the Bad, and the Uncertain	. 45
Bad Regulation	. 46
The Strategy of the Recommendations	. 47
Chapter 3
Benchmarks for Regulatory Governance: Key Principles and
Critical Standards	49
Why Benchmarks?	. 49
What Is an Independent Regulator?
Why Use an Independent Regulator as a Benchmark?
Are There Meta-Principles for Regulatory Governance?
Is the Independent Regulator Model Feasible in Countries with Limited
Governance Capability?	. 57
Ten Key Principles for the Independent Regulator Model of
Regulatory Governance	. 59
1. Independence
2. Accountability
3. Transparency and Public Participation
4. Predictability
5. Clarity of Roles

7. Proportionality       61         8. Requisite Powers       62         9. Appropriate Institutional Characteristics       62         10. Integrity       63         Critical Standards for Effective Infrastructure Regulation       63         1. Legal Framework       64         2. Legal Powers       64         3. Property and Contract Rights       65         4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy       65         5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions       66         6. Predictability and Flexibility       66         7. Consumer Rights and Obligations       66         8. Proportionality       67         9. Regulatory Independence       68         10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies       68         11. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         13. Public Participation       73         14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions       73         15. Ethics       74         Chapter 4         Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Systems?       78         Good Fits Versus Best Practice       79         Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems <th><ol><li>Completeness and Clarity in Rule</li></ol></th> <th>s</th>	<ol><li>Completeness and Clarity in Rule</li></ol>	s
9. Appropriate Institutional Characteristics       62         10. Integrity       63         Critical Standards for Effective Infrastructure Regulation       63         1. Legal Framework       64         2. Legal Powers       64         3. Property and Contract Rights       65         4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy       65         5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions       66         6. Predictability and Flexibility       66         7. Consumer Rights and Obligations       66         8. Proportionality       67         9. Regulatory Independence       68         10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies       69         11. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         13. Public Participation       73         14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions       73         15. Ethics       74         Chapter 4       Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them       77         Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve       81         The Importance of Starting Conditions </td <td></td> <td></td>
10. Integrity       63         Critical Standards for Effective Infrastructure Regulation       63         1. Legal Framework       64         2. Legal Powers       64         3. Property and Contract Rights       65         4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy       65         5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions       66         6. Predictability and Flexibility       66         7. Consumer Rights and Obligations       66         8. Proportionality       67         9. Regulatory Independence       68         10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies       69         11. Regulatory Accountability       70         12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         13. Public Participation       73         14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions       73         15. Ethics       74         Chapter 4       Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them       77         Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Importance of Starting Conditions       83         Governance       83         Commitm	8. Requisite Powers
Critical Standards for Effective Infrastructure Regulation         63           1. Legal Framework         64           2. Legal Powers         64           3. Property and Contract Rights         65           4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy         65           5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions         66           6. Predictability and Flexibility         66           7. Consumer Rights and Obligations         66           8. Proportionality         67           9. Regulatory Independence         68           10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies         69           11. Regulatory Accountability         70           12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency         71           13. Public Participation         73           14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions         73           15. Ethics         74           Chapter 4         Transitional Regulatory Systems         78           Why Transitional Regulatory Systems         78           Why Transitional Regulatory Systems         79           Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems         79           Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems         79           The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve         81	9. Appropriate Institutional Charact	eristics
1. Legal Framework       64         2. Legal Powers       64         3. Property and Contract Rights       65         4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy       65         5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions       66         6. Predictability and Flexibility       66         7. Consumer Rights and Obligations       66         8. Proportionality       67         9. Regulatory Independence       68         10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies       69         11. Regulatory Accountability       70         12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         13. Public Participation       73         14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions       73         15. Ethics       74         Chapter 4       Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them       77         Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Good Fits Versus Best Practice       79         Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve       81         The Importance of Starting Conditions       83         Governance       83	10. Integrity
2. Legal Powers.       64         3. Property and Contract Rights       65         4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy       65         5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions       66         6. Predictability and Flexibility       66         7. Consumer Rights and Obligations       66         8. Proportionality       67         9. Regulatory Independence       68         10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies       69         11. Regulatory Accountability       70         12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         13. Public Participation       73         14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions       73         15. Ethics       74         Chapter 4         Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Systems?       78         Good Fits Versus Best Practice       79         Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Importance of Starting Conditions       83         Governance       83         Commitment and Capacity       85         Commercialization       88         Evaluation Criteria for Tran	Critical Standards for Effective Infrastro	acture Regulation63
3. Property and Contract Rights       65         4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy       65         5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions       66         6. Predictability and Flexibility       66         7. Consumer Rights and Obligations       66         8. Proportionality       67         9. Regulatory Independence       68         10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies       69         11. Regulatory Accountability       70         12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         13. Public Participation       73         14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions       73         15. Ethics       74         Chapter 4         Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them       77         Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Good Fits Versus Best Practice       79         Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve       81         The Importance of Starting Conditions       83         Governance       83         Commercialization       88         Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Reg	1. Legal Framework
4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and Policy       65         5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions       66         6. Predictability and Flexibility       66         7. Consumer Rights and Obligations       66         8. Proportionality       67         9. Regulatory Independence       68         10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies       69         11. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency       71         13. Public Participation       73         14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions       73         15. Ethics       74         Chapter 4       Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them       77         Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems       78         Why Transitional Systems?       78         Good Fits Versus Best Practice       79         Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems       79         The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve       81         The Importance of Starting Conditions       83         Governance       83         Commitment and Capacity       85         Commercialization       88         Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems	2. Legal Powers
5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of Regulatory Decisions 6. Predictability and Flexibility 6. 7. Consumer Rights and Obligations 6. 8. Proportionality 6. 6. 8. Proportionality 6. 6. 8. Proportionality 7. 9. Regulatory Independence 7. 6. 8. Proportionality 7. 7. 10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies 7. 6. 6. 11. Regulatory Accountability 7. 7. 12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency 7. 13. Public Participation 7. 14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions 7. 15. Ethics 7. 74. 15. Ethics 7. 74. 16. 16. 16. 16. 16. 16. 16. 16. 16. 16	3. Property and Contract Rights
6. Predictability and Flexibility 7. Consumer Rights and Obligations 8. Proportionality 9. Regulatory Independence 10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies 11. Regulatory Accountability 12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency 13. Public Participation 14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions 15. Ethics 74  Chapter 4  Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them 77  Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems 78  Why Transitional Systems? 79  Good Fits Versus Best Practice. 79  Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79  The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve 81  The Importance of Starting Conditions 83  Governance. 83  Commitment and Capacity 85  Commercialization 88  Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92  Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92	4. Clarity of Roles in Regulation and	Policy
7. Consumer Rights and Obligations. 66 8. Proportionality 67 9. Regulatory Independence 68 10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies 69 11. Regulatory Accountability 70 12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency 71 13. Public Participation 73 14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions 73 15. Ethics 74  Chapter 4  Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them 77  Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems 78 Why Transitional Systems? 78 Good Fits Versus Best Practice 79 Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92	5. Clarity and Comprehensiveness of	Regulatory Decisions 66
8. Proportionality. 67 9. Regulatory Independence 68 10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies 69 11. Regulatory Accountability. 70 12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency. 71 13. Public Participation 73 14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions 73 15. Ethics 74  Chapter 4  Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them 77  Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems 78 Why Transitional Systems? 78 Good Fits Versus Best Practice. 79 Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and 89 Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92	6. Predictability and Flexibility
9. Regulatory Independence 10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies	7. Consumer Rights and Obligations
10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies	8. Proportionality
11. Regulatory Accountability. 70 12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency. 71 13. Public Participation 73 14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions 73 15. Ethics 74  Chapter 4  Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them 77  Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems 78 Why Transitional Systems? 78 Good Fits Versus Best Practice. 79 Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92	9. Regulatory Independence
12. Regulatory Processes and Transparency. 71 13. Public Participation 73 14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions 73 15. Ethics 74  Chapter 4  Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them 77  Overview of Transitional Regulatory Systems 78 Why Transitional Systems? 78 Good Fits Versus Best Practice. 79 Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve 81 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92	10. Financing of Regulatory Agencies	s69
13. Public Participation	11. Regulatory Accountability
14. Appellate Review of Regulatory Decisions	12. Regulatory Processes and Transpa	arency71
15. Ethics	13. Public Participation
Chapter 4 Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them	14. Appellate Review of Regulatory	Decisions
Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them	15. Ethics
Transitional Regulatory Systems and Criteria for Evaluating Them	Chanter 4
Why Transitional Systems? 78 Good Fits Versus Best Practice. 79 Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve 81 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92	•	Criteria for Evaluating Them 77
Why Transitional Systems? 78 Good Fits Versus Best Practice. 79 Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve 81 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92	Overview of Transitional Regulatory Sy	stams 75
Good Fits Versus Best Practice. 79 Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve 81 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92
Types of Transitional Regulatory Systems 79 The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve 81 The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92
The Danger of Transitional Regulatory Systems That Never Evolve
The Importance of Starting Conditions 83 Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92
Governance. 83 Commitment and Capacity 85 Commercialization 88 Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems 92 Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions 92
Commitment and Capacity
Commercialization
Evaluation Criteria for Transitional Regulatory Systems	• •
Regulatory Options for Countries with Some Effective and Well-Functioning Government Institutions
Well-Functioning Government Institutions	-	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
	•

Utility Franchise and Concession Contracts, Private Investment, and the Development of Utility Regulation9
Constraints on the Development of Effective Regulatory Institutions 9
Unwillingness or Inability to Move toward Commercialization 9
Unwillingness or Inability to Transfer Regulatory Decisionmaking
Powers9
Weak or Slowly Operating Law Courts and Regulatory Appeals 10
Uncertainty about the Nature and Strength of Regulatory Commitments10
Limited Regulatory Capability
Popular Concerns That Consumer Interests Are Being Ignored
Relative to Investors' Profitability
Macroeconomic Crises and Their Aftermath
Implications for the Evaluation of Regulatory Agencies
Chapter 5
How to Recognize Good and Bad Regulation: Regulatory Decisions and Sector Outcomes
negulatory Decisions and Sector Outcomes
Regulatory Decisions and Sector Outcomes
What Other Factors Affect Sector Outcomes?14
Should the Evaluation Ignore External Factors beyond the Regulator's Control?
Judging the Quality of Utility Regulatory Frameworks and Decisions:
Asking the Right Questions
Good and Bad Regulatory Decisions
What Is a Regulatory "Decision"?
The Meaning of "Good" and "Bad"
What Are the Goals?
What If the Evaluator Disagrees with the Government's Sectoral Goals?
How Can Good Decisions Be Distinguished from Bad Decisions? 15
Real-World Examples of Bad Regulatory Decisions
The Effect of Regulation on Sector Outcomes
Measures of Relevant Outcomes and Criteria for Infrastructure Industries15
Indicators for Output and Consumption
Indicators for Efficiency
•

Indicators for Financial Performance.16Indicators for Capacity, Investment, and Maintenance16Indicators for Prices16Indicators for Competition16Social Indicators.16	2
Conclusion	4
Chapter 6
The Process of Conducting a Regulatory Evaluation: Discussion and Evaluation Tools16	5
The Three Levels of Evaluation
A Short Basic Evaluation
A Mid-Level Evaluation
An In-Depth Evaluation	9
The Questionnaires and Interviews	0
The Alternative of Self-Completed Questionnaires
Conducting the Evaluations17
Conducting Short Basic Evaluations
Conducting Mid-Level Regulatory Evaluations
Conducting In-Depth Evaluations
Conclusions and Implications for Regulatory Evaluation
Conclusions and implications for regulatory Evaluation	. 1
Appendix A Critical Standards for Effective Regulation of Infrastructure:
A Detailed Exposition	5,
Appendix B Background Documents for Mid-Level and         In-Depth Evaluations       24	.5
Appendix C Questionnaires for Short Basic Evaluations of Infrastructure	9
Regulatory Systems	.7
Appendix D Questionnaires for Mid-Level and In-Depth Evaluations of Infrastructure Regulatory Systems	5
Appendix E       Guidelines and Questions for Mid-Level and         In-Depth Evaluations of Infrastructure Regulatory Systems.       28	7
Appendix F Sample Terms of Reference for Mid-Level and         In-Depth Evaluations of Regulatory Systems
Appendix G Summaries of Some Mid-Level and In-Depth Country-Specific Regulatory Evaluations

Appendix H Alternative Regulatory Governance Models	. 33
Appendix I Infrastructure Regulation in Failed States and
Post-Conflict Countries	. 34.
A Selected Annotated Bibliography	353
Index
Boxes .
4.1: Transitional Regulatory Systems—Type 1	80
4.2: Country Governance Measures	84
4.3: Commercialization Criteria for Utility Service Industries and Enterprises	9
4.4: The Stages of Regulatory Development	94
4.5: Regulatory Appeals and Alternative Dispute Resolution—Underlying
Legal Problems	10'
4.6: Contract Incompleteness
4.7: Renegotiation Rates for Infrastructure Concession Contracts and
Regulatory Arrangements	. 116
4.8: The Use of a Regulator to Monitor and Enforce Concession Contracts—
The Case of Jamaican Telecoms
4.9: External Regulatory Risk Mitigation Methods and Partial Risk
Guarantees
4.10: The First Two PRGs
Figure
2.1: Regulatory Actions and Decisions	. 45
Tables
ES.1: Effective Regulatory Systems: Impediments and Possible Solutions	8
4.1: Commitment and Capacity Combinations
The state of the s
4.2: Effective Regulatory Systems—Impediments and Possible Solutions	147
5.1: Bad Decisions Arising from Regulatory Inaction: Sins of Omission.
5.2: Bad Decisions Made in Regulation: Sins of Commission
6.1: Summary of Recommended Evaluations
	101