

Contents

Foreword	xiii
Acknowledgments	xvii
Acronyms and Abbreviations	xviii

Overview 1

The numbers	2
Patterns and effectiveness of current health spending	3
Health financing functions and sources of revenues	4
Risk pooling mechanisms	7
Development assistance for health	12
Realities of government spending and policy levers	14
Health financing challenges in low-income countries	15
Health financing challenges in middle-income countries	18
Learning from high-income countries	20

1 Health transitions, disease burdens, and health expenditure patterns 23

Demographic dynamics	24
The epidemiological transition and health spending	28
Implications of demographic and epidemiological transitions for health financing	32
Global distribution of health expenditures	34
Sources of health spending	36
Annex 1.1 Population pyramids and global health expenditures by region and income group	39

- 2 Collecting revenue, pooling risk, and purchasing services 45
- Health financing functions: definitions and implications 46
 - Revenue collection and government financing of health services 49
 - Risk pooling, financial protection, and equality 54
 - Risk pooling and prepayment 58
 - Purchasing 61
 - Health financing policies and fiscal space to increase health spending 63
 - Annex 2.1 Classifications of health financing systems 66
- 3 Risk pooling mechanisms 73
- State-funded health care systems 75
 - Social health insurance 82
 - Community-based health insurance 96
 - Voluntary health insurance 103
 - Annex 3.1 The four types of financial risk in voluntary/private health insurance 115
- 4 External assistance for health 123
- Trends in official development assistance 125
 - Trends in private financial flows 131
 - Trends in health aid 133
 - The effectiveness of aid 138
 - Recent efforts to revamp aid 150
- 5 Improving health outcomes 161
- Government health expenditures 163
 - Reaching the Millennium Development Goals for health 164
 - Annex 5.1 Government health expenditures, donor funding, and health outcomes: data and methods 170

6	Increasing the efficiency of government spending	185
	Institutions and policies at the country level	187
	Policy instruments to improve public sector management	189
	Targeting health expenditures	198
	Decentralizing health care	201
7	Financing health in low-income countries	209
	Health spending by region	211
	The cost of the Millennium Development Goals	214
	Public sources of revenue for health	218
	Private sources of revenue for health	227
	Equity and efficiency of health spending in low-income countries	236
	Annex 7.1 Four models to estimate the cost of the Millennium Development Goals for health at the country level	244
8	Financing health in middle-income countries	249
	Commonality and variations in health systems	250
	Common health financing challenges	252
	Revenue mobilization	254
	Risk pooling	259
	Purchasing services	265
	Other considerations	272
	Annex 8.1 Summary of recent health reforms in middle-income countries	273
9	Financing health in high-income countries	279
	Main reform trends in high-income countries	280
	Coverage decisions and benefit entitlements	282
	Collection of funds	290
	Pooling of funds	298
	Purchasing and remuneration of providers	302
	Index	311